Most butterflies ever: Have black markings

seriously though it's kind of frustrating when you're trying to pattern a silkwing after a real butterfly

I made mine have super, super dark blue markings. She's based off of the Mexican Bluewing. Her name is the scientific name for it, Myscelia Ethusa.

More SilkWing thoughts: it would be cool if they were all dull, camoflauge-y colors until their metamorphosis, since a wingless dragonet is at risk from predators.

Yeah, that is really frustrating when I am drawing SilkWings. I usually just give them navy blue or dark brown markings instead.
